Folklore

Harvested from beehives since Egyptian times, Honey is one of the more industrious botanicals. It is composed of a variety of sugars, waxes and other substances including citric, malic, formic, and lactic acids, beta carotene, enzymes, amino acids and vitamins. Honey is a soothing humectant and it also acts gently as a retexturizing exfoliator. This, combined with its natural antiseptic properties makes Honey an ideal cleanser and skin softener.
